PREFACE

सचिव
भारत सरकार
पर्यावरण, वन एवं जलवायु परिवर्तन मंत्रालय
SECRETARY
GOVERNMENT OF INDIA
MINISTRY OF ENVIRONMENT, FOREST AND CLIMATE CHANGE

The National Biodiversity Authority (NBA) established in 2003 to implement India's Biological Diversity Act (2002) performs facilitative, regulatory and advisory functions for the Government of India on issues of conservation, sustainable use of biological resources and fair and equitable sharing of benefits arising out of the use of biological resources in line with the mandate of Convention on Biological Diversity (CBD). Operationally, the State Biodiversity Boards (SBBs) and Biodiversity Management Committees (BMCs) are bodies established at the sub-national and local levels towards implementation of this legislation.

The State Biodiversity Boards (SBBs) established under the Biological Diversity Act (2002) are advising the State Governments on all the matters relating to implementation of the said Act. The local level Biodiversity Management Committees (BMCs) are responsible for implementing the mandate of the legislation and documentation of biological diversity and chronicling of knowledge relating to biological diversity in the form of People's Biodiversity Registers (PBRs). Under the provisions of the Act, State Governments also notify areas of biodiversity importance as Biodiversity Heritage Sites (BHS) to instil conservation ethics, promote community conservation, restrict overexploitation and enhance the quality of life of the local communities.

This document presents the images of some of the biodiversity icons identified by the 28 States of the country alongwith the current status on the establishment of BMCs and formulation of PBRs by all the SBBs in the country. I compliment the NBA team for preparation of the document.

MESSAGE

Ensuring biodiversity conservation, promoting sustainable use of nature and feeding humanity through water and food security are complementary and closely interdependent goals that can be advanced through sustainable forestry, agriculture, aquaculture and livestock systems, the safeguarding of native species, varieties, breeds and habitats, and ecological restoration. This idea is central to the mandate of UN Convention on Biological Diversity (CBD), adapted universally by almost all the countries including India in 1992. In order to fulfil India's commitment towards this multilateral treaty, legislation was enacted in the form of Biological Diversity Act, 2002.

India established the National Biodiversity Authority (NBA) in 2003 to implement the said Act and subsequently the State Biodiversity Boards (SBBs) have been established to spearhead the biodiversity governance at the national and state level respectively. The SBBs focus on matters relating to the conservation of biodiversity, sustainable use of its components and equitable sharing of the benefits arising out of the utilization of biological resources. The local level Biodiversity Management Committees (BMCs) are responsible for promoting conservation, sustainable use and documentation of biological diversity and chronicling of associated knowledge in the form of People's Biodiversity Register (PBR). Till date, 2,19,512 BMCs have been established and 13,732 PBRs have been made. Efforts are currently on to expand their coverage on a pan-India basis.

India's unique biogeographical attributes and topographical features endow it with a diversity of terrains, terrestrial and aquatic ecosystems that harbour a rich biodiversity as manifested in all the states across the country. For conservation and management of India's natural heritage, the SBBs are actively engaged and are eliciting cooperation from local communities and ensuring that their livelihoods are appropriately enhanced by implementation of the "Access and Benefit Sharing" framework. This publication presents a brief profile of all 28 SBBs of the country. I would like to compliment the NBA staff for their efforts in bringing out this publication.

ASSAM

A large Indian one-horned rhinoceros is the central focus of the image, standing in a dense, lush green forest. The rhino's thick, grey skin is highly textured and wrinkled, particularly around its head and neck. It has a single, prominent horn on its nose. The background is filled with vibrant green foliage, including various leaves and branches, creating a natural and somewhat overgrown environment. The lighting is bright, highlighting the details of the rhino's skin and the surrounding vegetation.
